PASSER-BY

On the evening of June 9th 1944, 99 youths were shamefully buried in this ever hallowed plot - no more than a common landfill at that time. They had been brutally hanged by SS soldiers from the Das Reich Division, following the orders of General Lamerding. The ashes of some 101 deported companions who had never returned from the death camps were reverently laid next to them.

Meditate
Remember

2024 was the year in which CAIF began an involvement with the Cities of Remembrance Network, an organization initiated by the Greater Dunkirk Council in 2015 to bring together people from cities that, after having seen the chaos of war, were able to rise above the destruction and were reconstructed, in terms of both the built environment and their civic society.

CAIF took part in the 5th Symposium of the network which was held in Limoges in June 2024 and our representatives were also given special status as members of the invited foreign delegations at the commemorations at Oradour-Sur-Glane, Nouvelle-Aquitaine, 80 years since the population of the martyred village was massacred during World War Two.

The Cities of Remembrance representatives come together to collectively address questions regarding how we remember, how we promote peace and, in particular, how young people can be encouraged to participate in the promotion of peace through the creation of artistic projects and international exchanges.

More than ever, the global context demonstrates the need to promote the values of peace and friendship through the maintenance of processes of remembrance and resistance and through the development of resilience and solidarity. This is the common ground on which the network comes together.

The network also acknowledges that wars continue to rage in the world at large - such as the war in Ukraine, the conflicts in the Middle East and the struggles for liberation from authoritarianism and extremism in Africa, the Americas and Asia - and that work for peace is a never-ending challenge.

REVIEW OF THE YEAR 2024

JANUARY

The year began with a breakfast at 'The Cosy Club', which was started as a regular monthly event in an effort to bring together different groups - CAIF, the Coventry German Circle and the Lord Mayor's Peace Committee - and anyone else with a common interest in international friendship.

On 17 January, the opening ceremony took place for George Wagstaffe's new sculpture in Peace Square. The Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress attended the Ceremony.

On 27 January CAIF's Assistant Secretary attended Holocaust Memorial Day, organized by Coventry City Council and held at the Belgrade Theatre.

FEBRUARY

A small group of CAIF members visited Dresden to attend the anniversary of the bombing of the city in 1945. They took part in the “Human Chain”, an annual event in which people hold hands to encircle the area around the Frauenkirche to prevent those with extreme views from appropriating the remembrance.

Members of the group spent a few days reconnecting with friends and also met with the British Ambassador to Germany.

A presentation was made in St Mary's Guildhall by a group of young people about the life of a former American slave who used his hard-won freedom and skills as a talented orator to tour Britain and Ireland to raise funds and support for the abolition movement. The project reached out to young people of African origin, and invited them to research, write and perform a script for an audio track telling the story of Frederick Douglass.

The project was designed and run by House of Emanuel I&I C.I.C.

Emanuel is a member of CAIF.

Permanent access to Frederick Douglass' life can be made through the “Digital Douglass” online platform.

On 29 February an online meeting was held with Dunkirk to discuss the “Olympic Flame” project which would be held in the Nord department of France in July.

MAY

CAIF's AGM was held on 16 May with guest speaker Coventry poet Navkiran Mann, who read some of her works. CAIF supported her in her visit to Dresden.

CAIF's friend from Dresden, Sylvia Kumichel, made a visit to Coventry.

From 26 May – 2 June, a small group of CAIF members went to the friendship town of Meschede, Germany, where they stayed with hosts and enjoyed a programme of sightseeing and social events in the company of friends from Vannes in Brittany.

JUNE/Oradour-Sur-Glane 80th Commemoration

On 10 June CAIF's Secretary and Assistant Secretary attended a commemoration ceremony to mark the 80th anniversary of the massacre at Oradour-Sur-Glane, on the same date in 1944, when the "Das Reich" Waffen SS killed 643 civilians - men, women and children - in cold blood and completely destroyed the village. Immediately following the massacre General Charles De Gaulle of France decreed that the village be left as it was following this tragic event - a ruined village with all traces of what had happened there preserved in perpetuity as a permanent historic memorial.

"We arrived in the village before 8:00am and waited outside the Town Hall as many military veterans, bedecked in their battle honours, assembled before the parade – including villagers and many relatives of the victims of the massacre set off northwards to the war memorial and then back down the hill towards the "Monument Aux Morts", the memorial to the martyrs".

Mayor of Oradour-Sur-Glane, Philippe Lacroix leads the Parade

Veterans and villagers walk together to the entrance to the ruined village

"From there, we had to make a difficult trek to the Esplanade within the ruined village and, after much effort, reached our seats amongst the foreign delegations. There then followed a series of presentations – wreath laying by various organisations from all over France and, notably, a rendition of John Lennon's "Imagine" by a choir of local school children".

REVIEW OF THE YEAR 2024

JUNE/Oradour-Sur-Glane 80th Commemoration

CAIF's Secretary making the long trek from the Town Hall to the Esplanade, an opportunity not to be missed - to take part in such a memorable event, a once-in-a-lifetime and unforgettable experience.

“Over a period of 150 minutes, as the proceedings on the Esplanade took place, we sat with an almost unbearable sun beating down - without any head protection, though with plenty of water bottles provided – while the two Presidents - of France and Germany - President Emmanuel Macron and Federal President Frank-Walter Steinmeier, made their way slowly through the ruins of the village”.

JUNE/Oradour-Sur-Glane 80th Commemoration

While the slow presidential procession through the village was taking place the names of each of the 643 martyrs were read out by schoolchildren.

Notably, the two Presidents displayed a great empathy towards each other which was further enhanced by their encounter with Agathe Hébras, the grand-daughter of Robert Hébras, the last survivor of the massacre who died in March 2023, and Karin Eidelothe, the grand-daughter of Adolph Heinrich, one of the members of Das Reich who had taken part in the killings in June 1944.

This act of reconciliation was reflected, in particular, in Steinmeier's address from the podium in which he spoke about the need to –

“... feel the authority of suffering, the victims and profound sorrow. Here, big words become small - they must stand up to the speechlessness that goes along with great suffering”.

President Steinmeier is the first German Federal President to participate in a commemoration ceremony to mark the massacre.

JUNE/Oradour-Sur-Glane 80th Commemoration

President Steinmeier went on to say that –

“It is courageous people who allowed us, as Germans, to be here today. And they are courageous to have initiated a special reconciliation. Reconciliation took place between actual people in day-to-day encounters: It is a reconciliation that never forgets. But it does not only look back to the past. It lives in a new present and also hopes for a better future. For us, Germans and the French, the hope for a better future became a reality: the reality of Franco-German friendship”. With this statement he emphasised the importance of a united and peaceful Europe: “Let us never forget the damage nationalism and hatred caused in Europe. Let us never forget the miracle of reconciliation that the European Union has achieved! Let us protect our united Europe!”

After the two addresses the Presidents laid their own wreaths and then inspected the guard of honour, which was being provided by the decorated veterans.

JUNE/Oradour-Sur-Glane 80th Commemoration

“When the ceremonies were complete we made the difficult walk back to a reception followed by three further acts of commemoration led by Oradour-Sur-Glane’s mayor, Philippe Lacroix, in particular at the local school where there was singing by young children and their teachers and a commemorative reading by a poet from Limoges, Gauvain Sers”.

In the evening the foreign delegates were invited into the Mayor’s Parlour where a series of presentations were made by Philippe Lacroix and Benoît Sadry, the President of the National Association of Families of Martyrs. CAIF’s Secretary was presented with two gifts of Limoges Porcelain – one for Coventry’s Lord Mayor and one for CAIF. Two books were inscribed with dedications from CAIF and the day ended with a dinner hosted by the Mayor of Oradour-Sur-Glane. The proceedings ended at 21:30 – the end of a very long and unforgettable 13 hours of commemoration and ceremony.

JUNE/Limoges Symposium

On the following day, 11 June, CAIF's Secretary and Assistant Secretary attended the 5th Symposium of the Cities of Remembrance network which took place at the Maison de la Région. Delegates from many parts of Europe assembled to hear addresses from the podium from three roundtables.

- 1: "Passing on memory: why and how should we remember".
- 2: "Places of remembrance in Europe: assessment and prospects"
- 3: "Remembrance tourism in the digital age: from pilgrimage to consumerism?"

CAIF's Assistant Secretary took part in Roundtable 2 alongside a Member of Parliament for the First Constituency of Bas-Rhin, a Member of the Presidency of Associations of the National Liberation Movement of Slovenia, and the Head of the Office of Cultural Affairs, Monuments, Protection and Museums in Rostock.

CAIF's presentation was concerned with what happened in Coventry in November 1940 and the post-war reconstruction with 3 key messages:

- 1: Coventry overcame the negative memories of war and destruction by creating a mission of Peace and Reconciliation.
- 2: Coventry offered a pathway of hope for a better future as the pioneer of the post-war Twinning movement, bringing people together to overcome intolerance, prejudice, insularity and fear of the 'other'.
- 3: We must continue to transmit the memories of the past to counter the problem of "forgetting" and encourage young people to create their own memories of peace and international friendship.

CAIF's closing statement was very well received –

"Citizen-to-Citizen diplomacy must be the way towards Peace and we advocate for a world in which mutual understanding and international friendship are the norm between peoples and their societies.

We would hope that these are values which will be represented by our leaders."
